When we go to a hospital for the first time, we usually worry about the procedure as well as our sickness.

If you know what the "MEDICAL QUESTIONNAIRE" is you can visit the hospital easily.

What is the MEDICAL QUESTIONNAIRE

(Monshinhyo)?

When you go to a medical institution you will be questioned about your health condition. etc.

In Japan, when you go to a hospital for the first time, you are given a medical questionnaire at the reception area. The medical questionnaire is used to inform doctor of your basic health condition before you see doctor.

There are many detailed questions on this form for analysis of your current health condition, etc. The questionnaire varies from hospital to hospital. You may be confused to find a lot of questions or unfamiliar medical terms. To avoid concern and confusion you should acquire general knowledge of the medical terms in Japanese while your health is good. The knowledge will become useful at hospital.

The following is a sample questionnaire. When you go to a hospital of internal medicine (stomach examination) you are given a questionnaire like this.

Name		Date of Birth	Age	Sex
				Male	Female
Address			Phone
1)	What is wrong with you?
	· fever · sore throat · cough · headache
	· stomachache · diarrhea · nausea · vomiting · others
2	How long have you had problems?
3	Have you ever been allergic to medication or food?
4	Are you presently taking medication?
5	What illnesses have you had in the past?
6	Question for women:
	Are you pregnant or do you have a possibility of pregnancy?
	Yes ( months) Not sur	re No		M
	Are you presently breastfeeding?	Yes No		•

Regardless of the type of illness, a questionnaire always includes questions about your allergies or medication you are presently taking. If you have allergies or you are presently taking medication, you should remember types of allergies and name of the medications. If possible, show the medications to the doctor.

You should also check the location of hospital in your area and go to the Japanese class to learn Japanese medical terms regularly. You may act calmly even if you are sick. To avoid panic, it is recommended to always carry a completed multilingual medical questionnaire. (Written by Junko ARAI)

Soba is a must for Japanese people. We think it is healthy food for longevity.

"Making Soba" at Japanese Class December 17th (Thu)

We usually eat "Toshikoshi soba" on New Year's Eve to pray for good health and longevity. Just as last year, FICEC's Japanese class will hold a special event named "Soba Dojo" to experience Japanese culture. Ms. Tozuka who is a popular Japanese class's teacher will teach you how to turn sobako (buckwheat flour) into noodles.

You can learn how to knead soba dough and also enjoy handmade soba. It is free-for-all and free-of-charge event. Not only learners at FICEC Japanese class but also learners from neighboring 2 cities and a town, etc. can join the event. Everyone is welcome. Please come over with your Japanese teacher. Let's enjoy making and eating authentic soba.

◆Time and Date: December 16th (Thu) Starts at 11:00 a.m.

◆Place: Fujimino International Cultural Exchange Center

◆Instructor: Ms. Tozuka

Please come to FICEC for studying Japanese. We are waiting for your visit.

Three months have passed since FICEC moved to a new location. Though it is a long way from Fujimino station, it is a light-filled and clean place. After the move, the number of Japanese class students has been dropping. Please come over to Japanese class with your friend or acquaintance who is a newcomer to Japan. Teachers are waiting for your visit. If you don't know how to get to the new location, please call FICEC. A staff member will pick you up.

Japanese-Language Class is held every Thursday,

from 10:00 to 12:00
